Long Henchman Is Given 18 Months for Evading Tax

Joseph Fisher Goes to Federal Pen for Income Tax Fraud

8 MORE TO TRIAL

Seymour Weiss, Long's Treasurer, on List of Those Indicted

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—State Representative Joseph Fisher, the first of Huey P. Long's Louisiana political lieutenants indicted for alleged income tax law violations to be tried, was found guilty on two of seven charges by a federal jury late Friday.

Judge Wayne G. Borah sentenced the swarthy little Jefferson parish political leader to 18 months imprisonment in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, in addition to paying the costs of the prosecution.

One of the charges on which Fisher was found guilty was a felony and carried a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment, $10,000 fine and costs of the prosecution. On this count Judge Borah imposed an 18-month sentence and levied the prosecution costs against the defendant.

The other was a misdemeanor, carried a maximum of a year in jail and $10,000 fine. Fisher was sentenced to 12 months on this charge, but the two prison sentences were imposed to run concurrently.

Officials declined to estimate the costs of the prosecution, which required nearly a month during which nearly 200 witnesses testified.

The felony count charged Fisher with filing and swearing to a false document protesting a government tax assessment on his own and his wife's income for 1930. The misdemeanor count charged willful failure to file an income tax return for 1932.

Other Charges Dropped

Fisher was acquitted on four felony counts charging willful attempts to evade and defeat income tax payments for 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932. He also was acquitted on a misdemeanor count charging willful attempts to return for 1931.

Fisher received the verdict with no show of emotion.

A 15-minute conference followed between Judge Borah and the attorneys, followed by pronouncement of sentence. Fisher stood stolidly as the judge assessed sentence, then walked.

No Clemency for Crosnoe at End of 30-Day Stay

Futrell Says He Has Obtained "Considerable More Information"

SENTENCE UPHOLD

Hope Arsonist Must Serve Term, the Governor Announces

LITTLE ROCK.—Following disclosure that a 90-day furlough was granted Thursday to Jesse Hutson of Hope, one of the principals in the Charles Crosnoe cotton gin arson case, Governor Futrell indicated Friday that Crosnoe need not expect further executive clemency when his 30-day stay granted last Monday expires.

Hutson was released on recommendation of Steve Carrigan, Hope lawyer, who, with J. C. Clark and D. Ball of Warren, defended Crosnoe in the Bradley county gin burning case last fall.

A penciled notation on the memorandum directing a member of the governor's office staff to prepare the Crosnoe stay, said "further extension may be granted, if everything is all right."

Admitting he had received considerable information about the case since he granted the stay, the governor said: "And when I extend further clemency in this case, you'll know it!"

Both Confessed

Crosnoe and Hutson confessed that they were hired to burn the gin, which belonged to J. A. Lee, father of former Sheriff and Collector John C. Lee of Bradley county. Crosnoe said he was hired by a salesman for a gin manufacturing company to burn the building and that he in turn hired Hutson and a negro, Chris Wheaton, to do the actual burning. Wheaton still is in the penitentiary.

Hutson pleaded guilty and started serving a three-year term last November. Crosnoe was convicted and the Supreme Court affirmed his six-year sentence several weeks ago and denied a motion for a rehearing Monday.

Ben F. Wilson of Minden, La., representative of the Continental Gin Company, was convicted on testimony of Crosnoe and Hutson, but the Supreme Court remanded the case for a new trial.

Governor Futrell said he stayed Crosnoe's sentence because he was informed his testimony was needed by the owner of the gin in a civil suit growing out of the case. The governor said Hutson is a man of good family and has served nearly six months of his sentence. A condition of the furlough was that Hutson remain with his father, Wash Hutson, and that Sheriff J. E. Bearden of Hempstead county supervise his activities while on furlough.

Says He Aided Officers

In asking clemency for Hutson, Mr. Carrigan pointed out that Hutson had furnished information which resulted in arrest and conviction of others in connection with the case.

Hutson, a bookkeeper, had been assigned to work in the prison commissary at Tucker farm.

It was reported from Hope that 46 fires occurred there during the winter of 1932-33, of which 37 were vacant houses.

Firemen were quoted as saying origin of the fires "looked suspicious," but that no arrests were made. Property damage was estimated at $100,000.

Solicitor Tells of Boxcar Holdup

O. B. Redden, Former Star Circulation Man, Robbed Near Louann

CAMDEN, Ark.—Five white men and two negroes were robbed, two slugged and then shoved off two Missouri Pacific freight trains near Louann, Ouachita county, by two negroes early Friday, according to O. B. Redden, 41, of Texarkana, magazine and newspaper circulation worker.

Redden notified Sheriff A. W. Ellis and Ouachita county officers went to Louann to investigate.

Redden said that he and two white men were in a box car on the northbound freight train with two negroes when the train left El Dorado after midnight. As the train passed Louann he said that one negro drew a pistol and ordered the white men to hold up their hands. The other negro then searched them, took what little change they had and all their personal effects. Two of the men were made to take off their hats and shoes. The white men were taken by surprise, and one was asleep at the time.

Redden at one time sold subscriptions here and has worked for various newspapers in South Arkansas, especially on rural circulation.

O. B. Redden worked for Hope Star four years ago.

New CCC Camp to Serve Nevada and Hempstead Soon

Location Will Be in Nevada, Probably Within 20 Miles of Hope

FORESTRY PROJECT

Men Will Construct Woods Roads, Build Fire Observation Towers

A CCC camp to be located in Nevada county probably within 20 miles of Hope was authorized as one of five new ones in the state of Arkansas Friday night.

The announcement was made by State Forester Charles A. Gillett, who is attending a forestry conference at Atlanta, Ga., in a telegram to Governor Futrell at Little Rock.

The new CCC camp will be under control of the State Forestry Commission, with its recruits assigned to forest conservation and fire control. The men will build woods roads and observation towers.

The camp is to be a part of District 9 of the forestry service, comprising parts of Hempstead, Nevada and other counties.

The five new camps will place a total of 2 million acres of forest land under fire protection.

Exact location of the local camp has not been announced—but it is understood that it will be in a rural region of Nevada, as it is the practice of CCC authorities to place camps away from established towns, creating a strictly camp atmosphere.

Girl Intercedes for Her Abductor

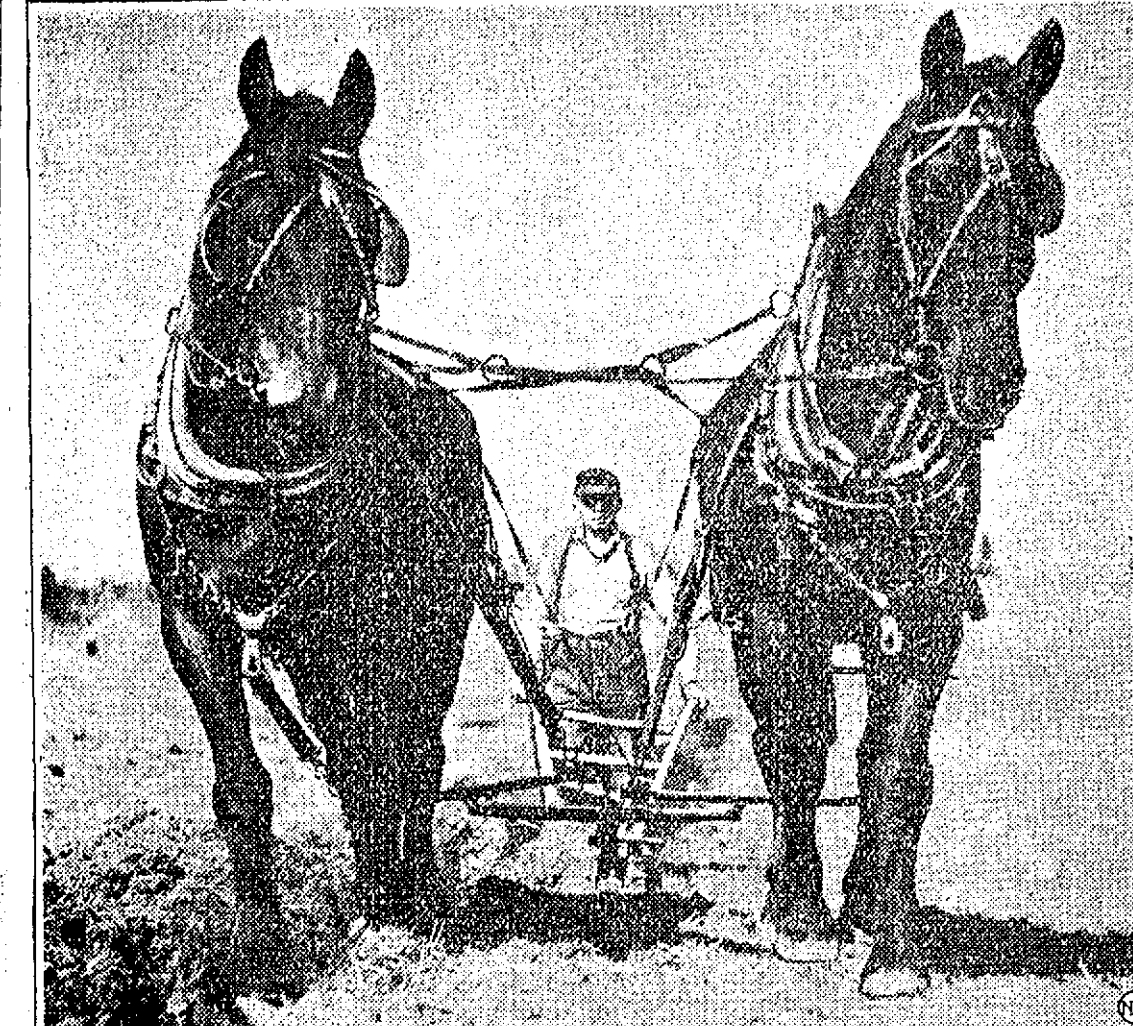

Mary McElroy Appears Before Missouri Governor to Avert Death

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(AP)—Slender Mary McElroy—whose $30,000 abduction resulted in the first death sentence for kidnapping in the United States—left with Gov. Guy B. Park Friday night an almost tearful plea for the life of her kidnaper.

She received no assurance the executive would accede to her request. There is not much time. The abductor, Walter McGee, is under sentence to hang May 10.

Miss McElroy was calm and smiling as she entered the governor's office to plead for the leader of a gang which kidnapped her May 27, 1933, and held her in a dark basement 29 hours until her father paid the ransom.

HOPE STIRS AGAIN IN THE GOOD EARTH

Despite drought and dust and disappointment, the farmer never loses hope, which seems to spring from the soil each year as surely as the buds and blossoms. Here is just one of the 10,000,000 American farmers who are now buckling down to the job of feeding the rest of their countrymen in the coming year. He's John Van Treijen, beginning his 16th year of spring plowing near Enumclaw, Washington, and his words "There is still a living in the ground" are an echo from the whole of rural America.

Slot-Machines in County Are Seized

Hollis and Ray Luck to Be Arraigned Monday on Gambling Charge

Return of the slot machine racket to Hope met action Saturday when Sheriff Jim Bearden seized two of the "mechanical larceny" machines at Luck's Tourist Court.

The machines, Sheriff Bearden said, were brought out for operation Friday night. They were back in a sequestered place Saturday when officers made an investigation.

A disturbance Friday night, the sheriff said, led to complaints Saturday which resulted in an investigation.

Hollis and Ray Luck, proprietors, will be arraigned Monday in Judge W. K. Lemley's court on charges of exhibiting gambling devices, the sheriff said.

Injunction Order Prevents Ousting of State Pen Head

Chancellor Dodge Takes Same Position as Attorney General

MEETING MONDAY

Todhunter Requests Hearing Before the Arkansas Penal Board

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Chancellor Frank Dodge in Pulaski chancery court Saturday granted S. L. Todhunter, "suspended" superintendent of state penal institutions, a temporary order restraining the State Penal Board from discharging him.

No hearing date was set on the injunction and no one appeared representing the board at the hearing.

Following the signing of the court order Todhunter said he still considers himself the state penal system superintendent and has never given up his records.

He said he would not attempt to interfere with the management of Tom Cogbill, named temporary superintendent by the penal board.

The penal board will meet Monday to consider Todhunter's case. Todhunter indicated that he would request a hearing.

Law Invalid

LITTLE ROCK.—The power to discharge the superintendent of state penal institutions is a function of the governor alone, because the section of the act delegating that authority to the State Penal Board is invalid, Attorney General Carl E. Bailey ruled Friday in a letter addressed to Walter Helms of Texarkana, chairman of the penal board.

On the strength of this ruling, S. L. Todhunter, "suspended" superintendent, will file a suit Saturday to restrain the penal board from discharging him, thus "saving" his status squarely up to the governor, his attorney, John L. Sullivan, said.

Governor Futrell concurred in the attorney general's view that Section 14 of Act 10 of the second special session of the legislature in 1934 is invalid because it was not included in the call for the special session. The governor added:

"I was not unconscious of the fact at the time that the section of Act 10 was in all probability, invalid. However, I did not raise the question, preferring to follow the legislative will."

"I have since followed the board in all its actions. I did not discharge A. G. Stedman (Todhunter's predecessor). The board did that. If it should be held by the courts that the penal board has no authority to remove the superintendent, then it seems to me it would follow that Stedman is still superintendent, since the board was responsible for his removal. Stedman is, in many respects, a mighty good man."

While the penal board may have been "responsible" for Stedman's removal, it was officially announced by the board and Stedman last July 13 that he had resigned.

Stedman said at the time that he offered his resignation "to stop criticism the Penal Board and the governor might be confronted with in the near future."

His resignation and the appointment of Todhunter followed the slaying of Helen Spence Eaton, escaping girl convict, by a trusty convict guard, and preceded the Democratic primary in which Governor Futrell was an opposed candidate for re-election.

WASHINGTON.—The New Deal's plan of redistributing the wealth by imposing double taxes on large estates, at rates that would force their liquidation, officially was disclosed Friday in a letter from Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee.

Secretary Morgenthau outlined a plan of imposing inheritance taxes as well as retaining existing estate taxes and said this was in line with "our fundamental objectives."

Besides the reference to "our fundamental objectives" Secretary Morgenthau's letter recognized that such taxes as he proposes would result in the dissolution of large properties.

"To prevent the necessity for hasty liquidation of large properties in order to pay the tax," he wrote, "it might be provided that inheritance taxes be payable in a convenient number of installments."

Secretary Morgenthau's inheritance tax plan for paying the bonus, Treasury officials said, would be "sort of an excise tax" on inheritances and would be treated as income and taxable at income tax rates.

Under existing income tax rates such inheritances would be taxable at the following rates:

Inheritance	Tax
$ 5,000	$ 8
5,000	80
10,000	415
20,000	1,589
50,000	8,869
100,000	30,394
200,000	87,019
500,000	263,944
1,000,000	571,394

During the Dark Ages it was believed that the fossils so frequently uncovered were unsuccessful attempts of Nature, the forms having been created but no animal life produced.

The governor announced his decision at the conclusion of a hearing, at which H. Jordan Monk and M. Donaher of Pine Bluff, attorneys for Niven, and Representative Robert W. Chrisp of Little Rock, asked that the furlough be granted to permit Niven to go to a Western state for treatment of tuberculosis.

The petition was resisted by Prosecuting Attorney Henry Smith, who characterized the killing of Meade as "cold-blooded murder."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Inspect Your Children For Sign of Measles.

While you are dosing your children with the annual spring tonic of sulphur and molasses, be sure to look them over carefully for any sign of measles. This, you should know, is one of the oldest springtime diseases affecting children.

The usual treatment of measles involves merely putting the child to bed, protecting it against cold, taking care of its diet and of its eyesight, and guarding it against the complications which are more dangerous than the disease itself.

The number of deaths from measles is exceedingly low. However, when the complications do occur, or when measles is severe, its results are exceedingly serious.

The room should always be kept fairly warm to lessen the danger of pneumonia. Persons with colds should always be kept away, because the danger of complication in the lungs is greater than other.

After the child has recovered, it needs a good diet to permit it to build its blood and its body as a whole back to the proper condition.

In addition to the usual treatment, medical science has developed a method which is of great value in making the attack of measles lighter and in lessening the total number of complications. A rather large epidemic of measles occurred in Glasgow, Scotland, in the spring of 1934, giving the physicians at that community opportunity to test the value of this new method.

The treatment involves the injection into the child, immediately after the diagnosis is made, of the blood serum from a grown-up person who had an attack of measles in childhood. The blood serum may be collected even in advance of the appearance of an epidemic and be stored away in an ice chest to await the time when it is needed.

The serum is used not only to treat the disease when it occurs, but also to inject children who may be exposed to measles, with the idea of preventing severe attacks of the malady in these children. Much depends, of course, on the stage or duration of the disease at the time when the serum is given.

The Scotch investigators found that the attack of measles may be expected to be very light in 80 per cent of those who develop the disease, if they are given the blood serum within four days of the time when they are exposed to the infection.

If the serum is given from the fifth to the seventh day after exposure to the infection, 60 per cent of the cases are found to be very mild. Without the serum, only 14 per cent of cases of measles are found to be mild.

It is understood, of course, that the blood serum must be taken from persons who had measles fairly recently. However, the blood serum from persons 50 years of age was found to be just as suitable as that from young men and women.

On the other hand, the blood serum taken from people who have not had measles will not have the power to weaken the attack of the disease.

How a Nice Old Lady Went in for Murder—"The Deadly Dowager" Tells an Interesting Story

In his preface to "The Deadly Dowager," by Edwin Greenwood, Arthur Machen suggests that it is high time for our novelists to return to the ancient art of telling an interesting story.

To give point to his argument, he contrasts two famous books of his younger days—"Robert Elsmere" by Mrs. Humphry Ward, and "King Solomon's Mines," by Rider Haggard. The first was very serious, profound, and weighty; the second was pure adventure and nothing more.

The first, being rather dull, is quite forgotten today; but Haggard's adventure story is still being read because, while it settles no profound argu-

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Grooming Enhances Beauty.

In the long run, perfect grooming is more important than great beauty. Even though her skin shows a few wrinkles, her figure a slight tendency toward plumpness, the mature woman who learned when she was quite young to keep herself immaculately turned out will have no cause for worry. The years may take away a good deal of youthful freshness as far as physical beauty is concerned, but they never can take away your right to be neat and spic and span.

A daily bath is one of the first requisites of good grooming, of course. Brushing teeth twice a day, having a shampoo once every week or two, depending on where you live and keeping fingernails clean and beautifully manicured are some of the other important rules.

Care of your clothes is another. With harmless dry-cleaning fluids for home use so easily available and so inexpensive, there is no excuse for one who goes about in soiled suits, dresses and coats. You may delect pressing, but it's far better to be annoyed doing it than to leave your room in a frock that is even slightly wrinkled.

Hats are things that one can forget about too easily. Remember that your hat should be brushed and aired thoroughly every day and that the inside should be sponged off with a bit of cleaning fluid each time you clean the outside. Air your shoes, too; use shoe trees and never, never run around in heels that are run down.

Put on fresh underwear every morning. Use a deodorant at least twice a week and a depilatory as often as is necessary.

Next: More about perfect grooming.

So they say.

As long as there can be a difference of opinion among nations as to what is truth and what is not truth, there will be war—Nelson Macy, president of the Navy League.

Honesty, sincerity, greatness—these qualities will not be attained so long as movie producers think only of quick profits.—Dr. Fred Eastman, Chicago dramatic professor.

Honestly, I don't think stage training, dancing, or anything of that kind does half as much good for youngsters as letting them alone.—Mary Brian, film actress.

We are living on top of a volcano, and no one knows when it will erupt.—Governor George H. Earle of Pennsylvania.

I had always wanted to make the grade alone. Not that I couldn't have enjoyed help, but I didn't want anyone to share the blame for possible failure.—Ruth Carhart, singer.

The Scotch patient was fumbling in his pocket.

"You don't need to pay me in advance," said the dentist.

"I'm not going to," was the reply.

"I'm only counting my money before you give me the gas,"—Troy Times-Record.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILICENT GRAYES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JAVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a beauty, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Happ's son, NORMAN, his stepson, ROBERT CASPER, Mrs. HAPPE, DICK COUNTRY, Happ's partner and VERA RUCHENIE, Mrs. Happ's maid.

In Happ's home Millicent sees the mysterious woman in black ermine who she believes has some connection with Dringold's death. The chauffeur is found dead. Later Happ is kidnapped.

Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in ermine belongs to PHYLLIS FAULKNER. They go to her apartment and Millicent finds the missing suitcase of books. She discovers a shortage of $200,000 in Centry's accounts.

Norman tells Millicent he loves her and wants to marry her.

They go to the liquor store where the clerk agrees to sell her the one who bought the whiskey found in the dead chauffeur's room.

While Millicent and Norman wait in a back room Mrs. Hap and Bob enter the store.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIX

MILICENT clutched Norman Happ's arm. "Do you suppose they know I'm here?" she whispered.

"They must," he said. "They're explaining to Johnson who you are, and telling him to hold you until they can get the police."

"Let's not wait here," she said. "Let's make a break. We can get past them and . . ."

Birds

Hear how the birds, on every blooming spray,
With joyous music wake the dawning day!
Do you never think what wondrous beings these?
Do you never think who made them, and who taught
The dialect they speak, where melodies
Alone are the interpreters of thought?
Whose household words are songs in many keys,
Sweeter than instrument of man e'er caught!—Selected.

Despite the heavy rainfall of Thursday night and the lowering clouds of Friday, the attendance at the annual pilgrimage to the Experiment Station was a splendid success from every point. Through the courtesy of the directors of the Experiment station, the Hope Garden club and all garden minded people and home beautifiers have had this pleasure for the past two springs, and on Friday afternoon when garden lovers from all over the county gathered under the large implement building, that our hosts had so graciously provided for our comfort, and met us with such a cordial welcome, we almost wished we could make a semiannual affair of it.

Mrs. K. G. McRae, the president of the Hope Garden Club was introduced by George Ware, Director of the Experiment Station. Mrs. McRae responded with a short talk expressing the appreciation of the garden club for the privilege of this wonderful pilgrimage and introduced Mrs. E. W. Frost, of Texarkana, the newly elected state president of the Federated Garden clubs.

Mrs. Frost gave a splendid talk on the beauties of nature and how to apply them toward making life more pleasant from both the home and public standpoint. She also told of some of the plans of the different garden clubs, asked for a hand up on the membership of the Hope Garden club and urged every woman present to join.

Following Mrs. Frost's talk, Mr. Ware introduced Sam Dameron of the Experiment Station who gave a splendid demonstration of plant propagation and fertilization followed by Carroll Morrow, assistant county agent who gave valuable information to the plant grower in regard to plant diseases and control of same, this splendid program of speaking closed with a talk on iris and how to grow iris by J. B. Youmans, plant fancier of Emmet. Mr. Youmans grows some 200 different kinds of iris, and his illustrations of blooming iris on Friday afternoon were indeed beautiful.

This lovely flower, so close akin to the highly valued flower of the rich, the orchid, is within the scope of the most amateur gardener, and we feel quite sure the iris will feature a great number of our gardens next spring, so inspiring was Mr. Youmans' talk and so beautiful were his different bouquets of iris with which he demonstrated his talk.

Following the talks the guests were conducted on a landscape tour and a view from the observation tower, all of which proved very interesting and instructive. The afternoon closed with a plant guessing contest and prizes were won by Mrs. Clyde Hill, Mrs. Dorsey McRae, Mrs. Roy Anderson, Mrs. J. S. Gibson and others.

The W. M. U. of the First Baptist church will meet at 11:30 Monday at the church where a pot luck luncheon will be enjoyed followed by visitations in the afternoon.

The Clara Lowthorp chapter C. of C. will sponsor a benefit bridge on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. W. Young on South Hervey street. Call either, Mrs. Young or Mrs. R. T. White for your reservations.

Mrs. A. B. Cobb and little daughter, Carolyn June, of Keo, are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Duffie.

J. L. Goodbar left Saturday for a visit to his home town, Lebanon, Tenn.

The regular meeting of the Friday Music club was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. T. White on North Washington street, with Mrs. Wilbur Jones and Mrs. Locke as associate hostesses. Gable, Bennett at Saenger Sunday

"After Office Hours" Presents Brand New Star-ring Team

A personal attraction as powerful as the surge of the ocean tides, and a bright sophistication in common—these are the elements which will place the new co-starring team of Constance Bennett and Clark Gable among the leading film couples of 1935.

Gable and Miss Bennett, who have never co-starred before, are together in a new production which the director describes as an "active and romantic" story where the editor of a great newspaper falls in love with his society reporter and solves a murder mystery.

The film opens Sunday at the Saenger.

"Sophistication and an intangible emotional appeal will, I think, form the mainstays of their popularity together. Both are distinct, clearly defined personalities who have that rare ability to coordinate their talents. Together they are able to mold and shape a scene to technical and emotional perfection."

Besides, each has tremendous personal glamour, which is another way of saying imagination. And it is this personal attractiveness, combined with cooperation, which lends strength to the dramatic and romantic situations in the story.

Both stars come to the new picture covered with triumph. While Miss Bennett's "The Affairs of Cellini" was breaking records, Gable was voted "most popular man on the screen" by readers of a leading film magazine following release of "Chained," co-starring him with Joan Crawford.

Divine Healing Is Revival Theme

Georgia Lewis Gives Own Experience to Tabernacle Audience

The text for Miss Georgia Lewis' sermon at the Tabernacle Friday night was Psalms 103:1-3, particularly dwelling on the third verse, "Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."

Miss Lewis announced as her subject, "Divine Healing," and said she felt qualified to speak on the subject, having had a definite divine healing herself. "I suffered for twelve months," she said "with a very serious stomach disorder. An x-ray showed that my stomach had fallen from its normal position down to my left hip. I was in continual misery and could eat only liquid or strained foods. In answer to prayer God touched my body; corrected the condition of my stomach and I was able to eat solid foods immediately. Praise His Name."

"We do not say that men are going to hell if they go to doctors. We have gone ourselves, but just feel that we are missing our privileges in God when we do not trust him for both soul and body. Psalmist David had the vision of the double cure provided for us when he said, 'Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases.' God dealt with sin and sickness in the same way by placing them both on the head of a sinless perfect substitute. Isaiah says 'He was wounded for our transgressions, and with His stripes we are healed.' So many instances of healing are recorded in the New Testament; the man healed at the Pool of Bethesda, and Paulus man let down through the roof before Christ, the little woman who pressed through the crowd and touched the hem of His garment. Some say that the miracles of healing were just for the early church. If this is the case it is because of unbelief, and can be restored by faith in God. It was just two years ago Christmas that God touched and healed my body. Oh, if we can touch Him by faith, as the woman did in the throng, virtue will flow out of His body to ours. When we come to Him, we must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." He remains the Unchangeable God.

"In the last chapter of Mark Christ commissioned the disciples to go into all the world and preach the Gospel and these signs shall follow them that believe; in my name they shall cast out devils, they shall speak with new tongues—they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forever."

Anti-Lynch Bill Gains in Senate

Southern Resistance Fails by One Vote—Bonus May Intervene

WASHINGTON—(P)—The senate Saturday again refused to sidetrack the anti-lynching bill, voting down a move to adjourn by 37 to 28.

Democratic leader Robinson proposed adjournment in an effort to make way consideration for the bonus bill next week.

Southerners Lose

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senate advocates of a federal curb on lynching Friday scored a one-vote victory, a victory hailed by those who met defeat as destined to be short-lived.

By 34 to 33, Northern and Southern senators rejected a motion to adjourn, which, had it carried, automatically would have sidetracked the Costigan anti-lynching bill.

The vote, in the case of some senators influenced by plans for considering the question of paying the soldier's bonus, climaxed three days of filibustering by a group of Southerners.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, offered the adjournment motion. Defeated, Robinson moved that the senate recess until Saturday. This was done.

The significance of all the maneuvering was, principally, that had the advocates of the lynching bill lost on the adjournment motion the bill would not necessarily have retained top place on the senate calendar.

Monday, at the latest, the senate will be offered a choice between going on with the lynching question or taking up the bonus bill. Heavy odds were on a decision for the latter.

Robinson earlier had threatened to keep the senate session all day Saturday. The ballot, when it did come, found the Southerners, with two exceptions voting solidly for adjournment. Logan of Kentucky and Bachmann of Tennessee broke away from their colleagues to vote "no."

"What power has congress over a sheriff of North Carolina?" he asked. "He is not responsible to congress but to the people of his community. When that responsibility is destroyed, you destroy free government in this country."
